

LEVERIDGE FOUND

WERE HUNTING HIM.

Gave His Right Name—His Mind Badly Affected—Story of His Disappear-

Last Saturday morning at an early hour Officer Hess of the Fifth District saw a man wandering about in a half demented condition at the corner of Gravois avenue and Delor street. When the man was taken to the Four Courts South of the city.

About 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the same day Mr. Charles Stewart called at the Four Courts and requested the police to ascertain the whereabouts of James Y. Leveridge.

tain the whereabouts of James I. Leveridge, who had disappeared the day before and had not been seen since. Although the police had the missing man in their custody several hours, the disappearance of Leveridge, together with a description of him, was sent out to the different police stations.

On the same day the police thought it advisable to have the mental condition of their half-demented prisoner inquired into and Dr. Warren G. Priest was accordingly called to the Four Courts. He examined Mr. Leveridge and had him committed to the City Hospital for further examination. In the meantime the police officers were searching high and low for the missing Leveridge. Leveridge is the son-in-law of Mr. Henry Pitcher, the manufacturer of sash, doors and blinds at 510 South Seventh street, and is a brother-in-law of Mr. Curtis Jennings of the lumber firm of Berthold & Jennings. He is very prominent among railway employees. For the past seven years he has been employed in the capacity of record clerk, in the auditing department of the M., K. & T. road. This department was formerly located at Sedalia, Mo., and Leveridge worked and resided there with his family. About two weeks ago he management of the M., K. & T. decided to transfer the auditing department of the company to St. Louis. Mr. Leveridge was given a furlough of one month in order to bring his family and belongings to St. Louis and secure a home. Mr. Leveridge, together with his wife and four children, came to St. Louis about a week ago and temporarily located at 1544 Papin street.

Last Wednesday, after his household and business affairs were pretty well straightened, he thought he would take a trip into the country. He went on a visit to the residence of Mr. Henry Miller at Webster, intending to remain there two days. On Friday morning at 10 o'clock after breakfasting with the Miller family he left the house, stating that he would return for dinner about noon. He did not return at noon and after a couple of hours had passed and he was still absent, search was made throughout Webster, but no trace of Leveridge could be found. A telephone message was sent to his folks in St. Louis to the effect that he was missing, but it was misunderstood.

stated above, the police had picked him up and sent him to the City Hospital and were not aware of his identity, although he had given his right name, and they were afterward asked to locate him.

FOUND AT THE HOSPITAL.

On Monday the relatives and friends of Leveridge became very anxious. The police

Having found no trace of him, one of his friends in the M., K. & T. office suggested to the family that it would be a good idea, as a last resort, to inquire at the City Hospital. On Monday morning about 10 o'clock Harry, the eldest son of the missing man, visited the City Hospital and found his father an inmate. The joy of the younger ladies, his father's

Mr. Curtis Jennings, speaking of the case, said: "I think that Mr. Leveridge's disappearance was due to an attack of paresis. Some time go the organs have trouble with an abscess on his side, and in treating him the doctor gave him belladonna and arsenic. I think he has increased the dose since to the injury of his mind. He certainly has lost his memory."

WANTED A WARRANT.

Adolph Gass Claims Striking Boiler-Makers Assailed Him—The Strike.
Adolph Gass, a non-union workman, employed at the Joseph Wangler Boiler works on North St. Louis, applied for a warrant today against Fred Fogel, Jr., and Thomas Matthews, to striking boilermakers, alleging that they assaulted him last night. He had a badly discolored eye. He was accompanied by Charles Wangler, a member of the firm for which he is working. They were told to go to the police court.

The strikers are said to be still employing intimidation tactics to make the non-union men quit work. Last night a number of the men working in the boiler factories asked for and received a police escort to their homes. A call was made at O'Brien's boiler works this afternoon and everything seemed to be progressing serenely. Mr. O'Brien was not in, but the clerk in charge said that beyond a few threats their men had not been molested. He working in the factory this morning. Mr. Wanzler was not in his office when a call was made there, and the young man who claimed to be in charge complained that the press was not giving a correct report of the strike, and refused to say whether the men employed at the foundry had been troubled. It is asserted, however, that the strikers have succeeded in inducing two more of Wanzler's

THEY HAVE CONFESSED.

MACON, Mo., Aug. 10.—Harvey Johns and Jim Reynolds are both under arrest here for the attempted train wreck at Atlanta last Friday night. They have both confessed that they were the parties who extracted the Wash rail, and give as their reasons that they did not think they would be caught and would receive a reward or a better position from the railroad by flagging the train and preventing the wreck. The Post-Dispatch furnished the crew that led to the capture of the boys. The two young men were arraigned before Justice Ames here this morning. Johns, who flagged the train, stated before the Justice that he did not deny ing the act. Reynolds said they did not intend to destroy any person's life in tearing up the rail, but they were a little short and wanted to secure some money and thought the railroad would help them out for preventing the wreck; they did not suppose they would ever be caught. The boys waived preliminary examination and the Justice and their bonds at $500 each. They were taken back to jail. It is likely that Johns will furnish the bond, but it is not likely that Reynolds can give even the small bail. The boys have engaged no one to defend them. They do not seem to realize their situation. They both have an intelligent appearance.

OHIO CONVENTION

Convenes at Cincinnati to Select a Democratic Leader.

MR. BARON'S COMPREHENSIVE AND SOUND PARTY SPEECH.

Much Enthusiasm Over the Report of the Committee in Favor of Seating the Neal Contested Delegation From Chillicothe—The Platform and Nominations.

CONVENTION HALL, CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 10.—The convention to select an opponent for Gov. McKinley was called to order at 8 o'clock this morning in Music Hall. At 8 o'clock none of the delegates or officers of the convention had arrived, and the great, beautifully decorated hall was deserted save for the presence of the blue-coated officers, who were stationed throughout the building. Cincinnati has done herself great credit by the manner in which she has handled the convention and entertained the horde of visitors who have poured into the city. The decorations in the hall are elaborate and exceedingly tasteful. Around the hall, with groups of flags, are pictures of many of Ohio's best known sons, who have distinguished themselves in peace and war. There was no distinction made as to party in the matter of portraits, and several prominent Republicans—all of them dead—were placed upon the wall beside the sons of Democracy.

At the opening of the convention there was practically no change in the situation. Neal against the field, with the field centering on Baker and straggling in various directions after other men. There was the same strong air of uncertainty prevailing as to the result, but many men came into the convention as ignorant of whom they were going to vote for as they were yesterday of the names of the men who were after office. It is a fact that numerous delegates came to Cincinnati entirely ignorant of the men for whom they were requested to vote.

The determination of the platform makers to give free silver the cold shoulder and come out of a blow to the Neal men, but they are confident to-day they will carry their man through by the second ballot at best.

The Baker men, too, made no bones of declaring their own simply cannot lose; and the Taylor men, who are popularly supposed to have no chance at all, are of the same mind regarding their candidate.

After 9 o'clock the delegates came in so slowly that at 10 o'clock not over half were in seats. Then they came more rapidly and after the band and the organ had taken turns at entertaining such delegates as had arrived, Chairman Critter gave three blows with his gavel, and the convention was on.

In a few words the Chairman introduced Rev. Geo. A. Thayer, who delivered a brief prayer, and an introductory Chairman made the first formal address of the day, speaking as follows:

He thanked the local committee and the citizens generally of Cincinnati, irrespective of party, for the complete arrangements that had insured the convenience and accommodation of the convention, and urged the delegates to go forth after their work with vigor and with the determination to win.

With violence and determination to win.

At the close of the address the delegates were seated, and the convention proceeded to the business of the day.

Shows have been quite general in the Northwest and the prospects are good for them to reach here by to-morrow. Generally fair weather, with the exception of the Mississippi River, with the exception of Tennessee, Georgia and Florida, where cloudy weather is reported.

Slightly cooler weather in the Northwest, elsewhere the change in temperature is slight.
Forecast for Missouri: Southwesterly winds, shifting to cooler northwest, with thunder storms to-day and cooler, fair weather Friday; conditions favorable for several local thunderstorms this afternoon or night in western portion.
Forecast for St. Louis for thirty-six hours from 8 a. m. to-day: Local showers and thunderstorm tonight or to-morrow; cooler to-morrow.

farmers are feeding wheat to hogs. This is as it should be. They ought to be worried over the consequences of a policy which they helped to fasten upon the country.

THE outrages committed by respectable citizens of Indiana upon the Conrad family bore fruit in the form of five or six dead men. It is very odd that most of the practical expositions of the theory of anarchy are made by respectable citizens.

AN issue of gold bonds bearing interest as a means of procuring a supply of the yellow metal will only stimulate the panic forces. One issue will follow another indefinitely for each supply will be exhausted as long as the cause of the drain remains.

THE only black man in Congress sticks to white metal. The Hon. George Washington Murray of South Carolina is a colored man who will not go back on Colorado. What must be Senator Sherman's feelings when he contemplates the progress of the Hon. Murray?

It is remarkable that so soon after Mr.
Ingalls' essay on the future of the colored man, there should be an influx of negroes in his own State and that white men are being crowded by them. It might be well for Mr. Ingalls to now give us an essay on the future of the Caucasian.

DOMS Thomas B. Reed still think the people are fools? Does he suppose that they have forgotten the high-tariff prices and distress of the past? The country is still at the mercy of the infamous McKinlay law which has done its full share in bringing about the present condition of affairs.

THE White Coppers of Indiana and West Virginia are in hard luck. The coppers are getting the drop on them. There is a great deal of difference between white-capping a man who will shoot and getting after one that is easily frightened, and it is no difficult matter to seize a woman and lash her. The White Coppers will do well to get back to the law as soon as possible.

THE WORLD's suggestion that a monetary commission be appointed to go over the whole currency question has been embodied in a joint resolution to be introduced by Representative McCreary of Kentucky. It has received the almost unanimous approval of the commercial and financial community. Its obvious merit should insure it an effective popular support.

It may be accepted as certain that cholera has appeared in New York Harbor and that the cases now on hand at Quarantine will be followed by others as expected immigrant ships arrive. It is said that the United States were never in better sanitary condition and that the plague will be kept down even if it does get a foothold. But we should not be overconfident. Every detail should be closely watched and the efforts of the authorities should be cheerfully seconded by citizens.

A MONETARY COMMISSION.

THE WORLD's suggestion of a monetary commission to consider and report upon the whole currency question in all its phases will be offered to Congress at an early date.

This plan is probably the only one which offers a good prospect of a reasonable, speedy, just and permanent solution of a question which has tormented the country for thirty years. A commission composed of trained students in economics in and out of Congress, and men of affairs who are deeply interested in concluding once for all a disquieting debate, will command the confidence of the country. Free from the disturbing influence of partisan emergencies, which so often makes acts of legislation mere truces like the Sherman law, it will carry on its deliberations with an eye single to the good of the country and the promotion of a healthy prosperity in which all parties and classes shall participate. There is good reason to believe that the report of such a commission would be, not a compromise, but a settlement acceptable to all.

The repeal of the purchase clause of the Sherman act will leave the field clear of all venustious practical difficulties. The subject can then be considered on its merits.
And as the commission will be composed of men of all shades of opinion there need be no fear that any interest will be lost sight of which has any real claim upon the country. Holding its sessions continuously its conclusions would be ready to present to Congress at an early date, the people meanwhile resting easy in the well warranted belief that its proposals would form the basis for comprehensive and final legislation.

CLEVELAND'S POWER.

Mr. Bland may get the united vote of the bimetallicists for a resolution favoring the repeal of the silver purchase provision and for free coinage "at a ratio of —," and doubtless such a resolution would command a majority in both houses, though not a majority large enough to override the President's veto. But when a bill is submitted in accordance with the resolution, and the ratio blank must be filled with figures, he will find the practical objections to any named ratio sufficiently strong and obvious to divide the bimetallicists themselves.

The ratio of 1 to 16, for instance, assumes more than a large proportion of the honest bimetallicists concede. It assumes that the present silver dollar is the sole unit of our currency whose purchasing power, with reference to everything except gold, is unvaried and unvarying; that the difference of value between 412½ grains of standard silver and 288-10 grains of standard gold is due entirely to the appreciation of gold through the silver demonetization acts of various countries; and that by providing for free coinage at the old ratio the United States can, without the consent of other nations, deprive gold of its increased purchasing power, and thus restore the old parity at the old ratio.

Many honest bimetallicists deny each and all of these assumptions, and will, therefore, regard such a free coinage measure as certain to contract our currency basis irrevocably by sending all our gold coin instantly to the melting pot. They will not make themselves responsible for such a disastrous contraction by voting for silver mono-metalism disguised as a bimetallic free coinage measure.

On the other hand they would as strongly object to a ratio adjusted to the present bullion value of gold and silver, because they believe those values to be on both sides the factitious product of legislation and other temporary causes. They believe that any free coinage measure based upon a materially false ratio would sooner or later, and probably sooner than later, make the financial middle worse than it is.

By ascertaining with certainty or approximately how much, if any, the gold of the gold dollar has increased over the normal unit of value in purchasing power and how much, if any, the silver of the silver dollar has fallen below that power, we might fix on a ratio which would correct those divergences and give us a gold dollar and a silver dollar of equal intrinsic value and just alike to creditor and debtor.

We could present such a new coinage law with some hope that its obvious fairness would strengthen the growing cause of bimetallicism in Europe, and secure us the co-operation of the great commercial nations in maintaining it.

But without such co-operation first assured, some bimetallicists would still hesitate to commit the United States to the hazard of maintaining alone against a world of opposition what they regarded even as the true ratio or a very close approximation to it.

With the veto power and backed by nearly half of both houses of Congress in stubbornly maintaining the present gold dollar "the only honest and stable unit of value," Mr. Cleveland is sure to triumph over the bimetallic majority because of the latter's inability to vote solid on any free coinage measure, or to pass over his veto.

UNPROTECTED HUSBANDS.

Mrs. Harriet R. Williams Strong, member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and successful orange grower, declares that the life insurance companies appreciate the superior honesty of women by insuring the lives of men when wives are to be the beneficiaries and refusing to insure the lives of women for the benefit of husbands. Mrs. Strong is evidently of the opinion that the insurance companies suspect all husbands of a desire to be rid of their wives. Mrs. Caudle used to accuse Mr. Caudle of a wish for her immediate death, and she even charged him with taking no interest whatever in the children. It was very fortunate that Caudle had no policy on Mrs. Caudle's life. Not only would Mrs. Caudle have been sacrificed, but those innumerable lectures of hers would have been cut short and the world would have been deprived of one of its most delightful literary treats.

There are thousands of women, some with really honest husbands, who have repeatedly accused their mates of "wishing them to die," and it may be that the insurance companies have relied too much upon the testimony of these good wives in making up the insurance scheme. But the insurance men ought to know that it is a trick of fortune tellers to comfort feminine patrons by assuring them that their husbands will die within the year.

Mrs. Strong probably wishes that Mr.
Strong may live to be very old, but she must not reason from this that other women may not be weak in their conjugal sense of duty, and she should not place too much reliance on the insurance company's estimate. There are wicked husbands, to be sure, but a good deal of that comes of the carelessness with which they are selected.

One of the serious questions with which the Cleveland Administration will have to deal is the Union Pacific indebtedness, amounting to $30,000,000, which matures in 1898. Several attempts have been made to come to an understanding with the company, but have been unsuccessful. The Union Pacific people now sit back and are waiting for the Government to act. To foreclose would be to put the Government in possession of a very small fragment of what is now a huge system with branches whose mileage far exceeds the line covered by the Government claim. The company is insolent and apparently thinks the Government is in such a position that it cannot afford to resort to extreme measures. The first mortgage once held was exchanged for a second for no good reason as far as can be ascertained, and the game is practically in the hands of the men who have already made millions out of the easy-going Government of Uncle Sam, without giving an equivalent. The upshot of it all will probably be that the present loan will be extended for another bearing 2 per cent interest and this in turn is likely to be scaled if not entirely wiped out. The course of Congress in the past justifies this fear.

The following extract from a speech made by Mr. McKinley at Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1890, is worth reprinting to show the worth of that gentleman's opinion on economic questions and his value as a guide, philosopher and friend of the people:

What have we done? We have passed the silver bill—the best silver bill that was ever put upon our statute books. What does it do? It utilizes every ounce, every penny-weight of the silver product of the United States. The Government buys $4,000,000 ounces every thirty days, and issues its Treasury notes for that sum, and makes them redeemable in gold or silver, and makes them receivable for debts, public and private, absolutely a legal tender that puts in circulation a little more than $2,000,000 every thirty days, and in addition to what is put in circulation under the old law, the $2,000,000 of coinage a month. Then we have made this silver as good as gold, and silver to-day is nearer on an equality with gold than it has been for eighteen years; and why shouldn't they be side by side in the business of this great country?

And yet he is advising the repeal of this much-praised law. Surely a man so ignorant of the ordinary workings of well-known economic influences is not fit to counsel the people.

THE plan of Senatorial nominations by popular conventions should not be adopted or rejected according to the interest of politicians. The plan should be adopted as a permanent feature, or until the people can declare themselves directly at the polls, because it is the best method known of securing the best talent for a high and honorable place.

IF Health Officer Jenkins of New York will let the country know when cholera cases are reported he will help to keep down the plague. The policy of concealment pursued by the authorities of Southern France and Italy has already resulted disastrously, even the shopkeepers and hotel men in whose interest the facts were suppressed suffering along with the rest of the community. We cannot afford to adopt this penny-wise-pound-foolish programme.

THE national importance of the Ohio gubernatorial nomination depends upon the election next November. If the Democratic nominee bests McKinley he will be good presidential timber. If he fails to carry the State, however, he will not be heard of in the convention of '96. For this reason it is to be hoped that the Democrats of Ohio will make no mistake, but nominate their very best and strongest man.

MAGICIAN HERMANN offers to bury Mind-reader Seymour so that there can be no resurrection when the barley is ripe. He thinks it impossible that Seymour's experiment can be carried out honestly without fatal results. In the interest of science let Hermann be summoned as a "mourner."

It is charged that a prison physician in New York has been manufacturing liquor and selling it to the convicts at ten prices.
This is the pharmacy scheme. Customers of a pharmacy may go from one drug store to another, but convict patrons move in a limited area.

THE arrival of the Maharajah Sir Wagdi Thakore, son of the late Maharajah, with his son, Prince Lakshidhej, at the Fair, might help show some but for the fact that he is easily mistaken for a European. It is only on the hotel register that the Maharajah counts.

THE weather is extremely dry. The silos are cumbered with a great amount of inflammable trash. The small boy, when he would smoke near home, retires to the alley with his cigarettes and matches. Is this not a perilous outlook, Robert?

It is announced that Citizen George Francis Train has become a permanent resident of Chicago. Should Citizen Train permit his name to go before the people, there could be no doubt that he would be the Windy City's next mayor.

THE Missouri statesman's response: Do you ask what State I hail from?
Well, now, I just don't know.
But I feel a little swelling When I say I'm from Missouri.

EAST the cholera threatens; South the yellow fever menaces. However, it may be well to get the public mind off its financial sickness even if double pestilence has to be called in.

It was doubtless the forbidding silver aspect that led Banker Haughey of Indianapolis to his Old Fellows' default of $30,000. He probably feared that a party might not be reached.

THE expert who asserts that mind reading is not mind reading at all but muscle reading should experiment with Mr. Corbett or Mr. Sullivan and give the world the results.

Just a little bit of the stringency may possibly have been brought on by venturesome persons attempting to manage a bar account on limited capital.

WHEN one of Commissioner Bell's circulars reaches a pharmacist, the man of drugs feels as if he had been "overtaken by the bitter pill of adversity."

PERHAPS, after all, the erring shoemaker of Higbee, Mo., who was assailed by five women with whips, would have preferred a tongue lashing.

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN has saved the Fair, but his powerful arm does not appear to have reached the Chicago base ball club.

It is well that Col. Ingersoll has so little hair. It would all stand on end when he learned of our 10,000 new churches.

It would be interesting to know what her neighbors say of Mrs. Scialchi's eleven parrots.

OVER in Indiana they are not singing "Comrades." It is "Conrads."

The Fruits of Thirty Years.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal of order, and back of it there is scarcely a sound limb in the body politic. The banks suffer from a loss of popular confidence; the people suffer from a loss of banking credit. Very much less disparity of money values would be enough to account for this, to say nothing about the decline of the staples and the burning of the booms, the floods in the South and the debts in the West. Everywhere unequal burdens are imposed. A system of unjust taxation, feeding the few out of the toil of the many, has piled up disproportionate wealth on the one hand and widespread poverty on the other. The masses of workmen are no longer permitted to have their own wood and to draw their own water, but before they can do either they must pay tribute to the protected classes, while the myriads of farmers who sow and reap in order that all may live have everything added to their burden. Under the gold standard and everything that they have to pay they have to pay to the moon to insure profits to favored domestic enterprises.
Thirty years of Republican misrule tell the dreary tale.

Militant Virtue in Indiana.

From the Indianapolis Sentinel.
It seems that virtue is not its own reward in Harrison County. About 100 virtuous law-breakers started on Sunday morning to whip and otherwise maltreat two desperate characters. But the desperate characters were poured out of the county, and the virtuous people are left with the desperate characters. This was very annoying to the virtuous people because they expected to do all the violence that was done themselves, and those who survive now propose to lynch the desperate characters for deserting their home and leaving the virtuous people to do, but which they had a legal right to do, but which the virtuous people seem to consider improper. The desperate characters are widely outnumbered, and will probably get the worst of it before they are through, but it is to be hoped that they will kill a few more of the virtuous people before they turn up their toes. There are still too many virtuous people in Harrison County.

The Drunkard Has His Uses.

From the Philadelphia Record.
Le Bombou, a reputable French publication, gives expression to the theory that drunkards are martyrs to the evolutionary process whereby poison, the secret of which has not yet been discovered, shall eventually replace meat and vegetables as food for man. If this be true—and why should it be so hard-hearted as to doubt it—it is time that a pause should be made in the general condemnation and that the world should begin to show a proper amount of respect for these unappreciated benefactors of mankind. The great usefulness of the work to which the valiant inebriate has so long devoted himself, unmindful of abuse and general misconception of his high and noble purpose, calls loudly for recognition.

The time may come when his real worth will be recognized and a race of copper-lined and whisky-proof descendants will gratefully crown with a monument and straw with flowers every neglected drunkard's grave.

Another Belief Biased.

From the New Albany Ledger.
Science has disproved the rural belief that thunder sours milk. It is now known that the souring results from a fungus growth and that this fungus is peculiarly fatal to nursing children. The old-time rural belief was that the concussion from thunder acted mechanically upon the milk and first soured and then solidified it. The theory is a plausible one, easily derived from observing one set of facts, without knowing about the existence of others more important to the situation. It happens that milk does sour during or just after thunderstorms, because the atmospheric conditions then prevailing are usually of a kind favorable to the rapid development of the fungus growth that sours milk.

The Church of the Heretics.

From the New York Tribune.
What shall be done with religious heretics, men who reject the outward forms of religion but accept its spirit? It is a serious question for the heretics, and possibly for the churches. We cannot attempt to answer it here, but note that in the last issue of the Evangelist the Rev. William Hoppaugh, a Presbyterian clergyman, advises the formation of a "Church of the Heretics." He is probably not altogether serious; for a church that would accept a heretic might not suit any other. But his proposition offers food for thought. The heretics, like other Christians, see the picture from different points of view. But let us hope that, like other Christians, they acknowledge in spirit, if not in letter, the religion of all sensible men.

Women Are Females in Massachusetts.

From the Charleston News and Courier.
"The unprotected female in Massachusetts," says the Boston Herald, "finds Massachusetts a better place to live in than any other part of the country." Did you intend your remark to apply to female cats and chickens and oysters and other such creatures, contemporary, or only to "females" of the human species? And if you meant to speak of women, why not call them women?

Justice to the Dead.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: I desire to deny emphatically part of the report in the Post-Dispatch of the 8th, concerning the wonderful spiritualistic powers of Mrs. Resold of Lebanon, Ill. We hold our beloved dead too sacred to be dragged forth to be the sport of a diseased brain. The statement that Dr. Cunningham was an in-del on his name and memory. He had an ever increasing reverence for the marvelous character of Jesus. His wonderful patience struck him with reverence. He would agree that the refusal of needed delicacies which were ought to find compensation beyond the lives of those who called themselves Christians repelled him. But he never scoffed at the belief of others. That a message came in his handwriting is utterly untrue. Mrs.
Resold's visits to Mrs. Miller because they were always accompanied by a well-filled basket of needed delicacies which were long way toward "healing." I beg of her to stop in the use of his name, if not out of respect for his memory, but out of respect for the feelings of the living.

Roasting the Races.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
For some time I have noticed the "roasts" of one of our morning dailies has been given the place familiarly known as Pool Alley, and have wondered why no mention has ever been made of irregularities or crooked practices at South Side and East St. Louis car tracks. While not an advocate of Pool Alley or any of the other pool rooms the editorial staff is not hesitant to state that the most of the sports receive in those places is as fair as the race track. The race track is a special service for the race track. We take on chance for the Levee. R. E. B.

Tricks on Travelers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
This is how they treat people on the electric cars in East St. Louis, especially if you are in a hurry to reach the Levee. They take your money and greet you with "this car don't go to the Levee, change cars or walk;" then the car goes through the switch at the bridge approach and alights at the bridge three to five minutes in hopes of catching a passenger for the race track. This line has special service for the race track. We take on chance for the Levee. R. E. B.

A Very Effective Arrangement of Hair

The Princess May of Teck entrusted the occasions. Every woman will be glad to hear that did not attempt to dress the hair in a noticeably elaborate fashion.

The hair at the sides was gracefully waved.
In front a coronet of orange blossoms was worn rather far forward. Back of this was a magnificent tiara of diamonds. Then came two various puffs and a few feathery curls encircled by another wreath of orange flowers. From this the veil of Honiton lace fell over the back of the shoulders. It was

INDIGNANT OVER HER INTERCEPTED LOVE-LETTER.

He Says That the Woman Must Be Crazy to Write to Him as She Did and He Trusts Her Letter to a Turkey—He Is Married to Her Niece.

Samuel Wray, the shopkeeper, is not at all flattered by the affection lavished upon him by his 60-year-old companion in crime, as shown by the remarkable love letter she attempted to smuggle to him yesterday, and it is doubtful if he reciprocates the same to any great extent. He realizes the fact that the document, endeavoring though it was, is metaphorically another nail in his coffin, and makes the probability of a long sentence for both of them almost a certainty.

Sam heard of the existence of the letter for the first time from a reporter who visited him in his cell in the afternoon this morning. He listened in silence as a copy of the letter was read to him, giving only expression to his thoughts in a low whistle as he heard the sentence in which the woman admits taking the goods and destroying the tickets. When he had heard it in full he talked freely, though in no complimentary manner, of its author.

SAM DOES NOT RECIPROCATES.

"She is a — fool," he said, "to write anything like that. She is clean crazy, that's a certainty. Are you sure she wrote it?" he inquired earnestly.

"Yes, she wrote it and handed it to the turnkey, folded up in a newspaper to be given to you," was the reply.

"Then she is crazy," he reiterated with even more emphasis than before. "Why it's the dumbest foolish thing I ever heard of to write a letter like that and expect an answer to give it to me. She has got no bloody sense that she has, though in a way, before, but this puts us in a — of a fix."

"Were you lovers, Sam?"

"No," was the answer given in disgusted tones, "we occupied the same room together, but there was nothing between us. Why, I am married to her niece."

"Is your wife living?"

"Yes, she is in Chicago, where I should have been now if they had not pinched us that day."

"Have you any family?"

"Yes, but I don't want to say anything about them."

"Did you have any hand in taking the things stolen, or were you merely to dispose of them?"

"You will have to excuse me answering that. I would rather not and you will appreciate my reasons. That woman has got wheels, that is all I want to say. She is crazy as a bed bug, that's sure."

WHAT LENA SAYS.

Lena Johnson was next seen. She still stoutly protests her innocence and apparently does not attach much importance to the damaging admissions her letter contained. She vows to make it hot for all detectives and reporters in the city when she gets out and thinks every one in St. Louis is a rogue. When asked if she was in love with Wray she replied that there would be nothing strange in it if she was.

"Are you engaged to be married?"

"I'm not going to tell you, but if we wanted to get married, I could tell you."

"What are the relations between you?"

"We were partners. We were going to keep house, or start a store or something, and I bought and paid for all our articles in my trunk."

Further questions as to the meaning of the admissions in her letter she refused to answer, merely stating that she would spring an even larger sensation on the public in the near future. To all queries which she refused to answer she referred the questioner to Wray, who, she said, was a good boy, who would not tell a lie.

A HAPPY PARTY.

Summer Post-Dispatch Tourists on the Shores of Lake Minnetonka.

From the Minneapolis Tribune, Aug. 8.

It was a merry party which arrived yesterday at Hotel St. Louis, taking the hotel by storm. But it was a travel-stained and tired party, also, for the journey from St. Louis, Mo., to Lake Minnetonka is a long one, and the weather was hot and the road dusty. The St. Louisans, for such they were, had the best of the journey, however, having a special car and making the trip without change or worry. There were fifty in the party.

It was the long expected St. Louis Post-Dispatch excursion to Lake Minnetonka. The holders of the lucky numbers distributed by the St. Louis paper will now spend a week's outing at the gem of Northern resorts, bathing in the health-giving waters, breathing the invigorating air and living on the fat of the land at Hotel St. Louis, all under the auspices of the enterprising St. Louis newspaper.

"Our journey up here was a pleasant one," said a member of the party, "and now we propose to have a good time at the lake. We, of course, hear a great deal of Minnetonka down in St. Louis, and we expected something quite grand. But this, waving my hand toward the beautiful vista which opens from the hotel platform, 'excels all our expectations. As for the way, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is 'the paper of St. Louis.'"

From the Minneapolis Journal.

The 9:30 train from St. Louis yesterday morning brought a party of fifty St. Louis tourists to the Hotel St. Louis, Minnetonka. There are included in the party people from all parts of Missouri, although the majority are from St. Louis. The tour is the result of a prize contest run by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and the tourists were escorted to Minnetonka by J. D. Caruthers, superintendent of Circulation of the Post-Dispatch, and W. J. Winter, the business manager.

The visitors will be entertained at the Hotel St. Louis for a week, and the time will be taken up with a series of the most interesting points of interest on the lake, fishing excursions and other rural pleasures.

WOODWARD GOES AGAIN.

The Traveling Salesman Located. Only to Disappear Once More.

The mysterious conductor of Levi A. Woodward, traveling salesman for the firm of James A. Scudder & Co., wholesale grocers, in failing to report to his firm and absconding himself from his wife and family at Louisiana, Mo., is giving several private detectives a great deal of trouble. Woodward, until yesterday morning, had been living at the residence of his sister, Mrs. James Spore, of 1007 Olive avenue. Since then a vigorous search throughout the city has failed to turn up any new lead further than the fact that he left St. Louis some time yesterday. Mr. James Scudder, Woodward's employer, stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter this morning that he was quite positive that Woodward was not in the city. "We have discovered nothing in his connection with the house," he said, "that would justify us in ordering his arrest. If we were positive he had committed a criminal act we would have notified the local police authorities. We have ascertained that he collected one or two bills, but we do not know whether this money was not used for expenses on the road. Woodward has been in our employ for seven years and was a drinking man. I have been told, however, that at late he had been playing the ponies quite extensively and this may have caused some trouble."

During his stay at the residence of his sister, Woodward said nothing concerning his quest for his wife and family. Woodward, as mentioned the fact that he needed a rest. His territory throughout Missouri is believed to be in the hands of the local police. Woodward has been in our employ for seven years and was a drinking man. I have been told, however, that at late he had been playing the ponies quite extensively and this may have caused some trouble."

ALTON ITEMS.

Wm. Schubert Run Down and Killed by a Train—News and Notes.

ALTON, Ill., Aug. 10.—News reached this city yesterday of the killing of Wm. Schubert at Brighton on Tuesday evening, by a Chicago & Alton train. He was visiting his son, Gus Schubert, and was struck by the train while crossing the track. He had resided here for many years, his last home being on East Third street. His body was left yesterday morning to bring his body to this city for burial. He was 64 years of age, and was a well-known resident of Alton. D. O. H., from which his widow will receive a handsome sum as life insurance.

Mr. John Gill has received the appointment of engineer for the new electric light company, and will remove to this city.

The death of a small child is still increasing. Mr. and Mrs. John Kummer, at 805 East Second street, Alton, Mo., on Friday last, lost their only child, a boy named John Kummer, aged 1 year and 10 months. The child was taken to the hospital by a private physician, but died after a few days' illness.

A happy company of young married people, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Korman, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Cheesman and Mr. Ed. Dwyer, returned yesterday from a very pleasant visit to Keokuk.

Miss Lulu Gann of Greenville, Ill., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lindley of East Second street.

Ladies of the South Side Day Nursery Have Plans for an Addition.

The ladies of the South Side Day Nursery, 1231 South Tenth street, are agitating for an addition to their building. They had plans prepared and got bids, which alarmed them, as it appeared that $300 would be needed to give them the facilities they desire. They have something under $200 toward this sum and are anxious to secure the remainder as the work of the nursery has been extended so that additional room is required. Women who have to work away from home and have children so small they cannot be left alone, take them to the nursery where, for a nominal charge, the children are cared for all day. A kindergarten has been added to the nursery, so that the time of the older children may be spent profitably.

Old and Strong American National Closes Its Doors.

FOLLOWED QUICKLY ON THE HEELS OF THE FIRST NATIONAL.

Cards Published by Directors Statute Both Banks Were Perfectly Solvent and Pledging Their Personal Property to Pay Depositors—Run on the Fourth National—Failure.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 10.—The suspension of the First National Bank last evening was followed to-day by the suspension of the American National Bank, one of the largest and strongest in the city. The bank has a capital stock of $1,000,000 and a surplus fund of $100,000. When the bank opened for business at the usual hour there were many depositors about its doors, and soon a run was made. The crowd was very orderly and was paid as rapidly as possible. Meanwhile a run began on the Fourth National bank, which has a capital stock of $1,000,000 and a surplus fund of $200,000, and is regarded by business men as perfectly solvent.

The directors of both the American and Fourth National Banks published cards this morning to the effect that their banks were perfectly solvent and also pledging their personal property to the payment of depositors. The run on the American National Bank was stopped by 10:30 o'clock by the announcement of the board that they had decided to suspend payment.

The Fourth National Bank continued to pay depositors as fast as checks were presented, and at this hour (10 o'clock) is still doing so. The directors of the Safe Deposit, Trust and Banking Co., met at an early hour and decided, in view of the excitement prevailing, to take advantage of the clause in their charter requiring depositors to give sixty days' notice of withdrawals of deposits. The board posted a notice stating that the depositors are absolutely safe for every dollar they have in the bank. There was no run on the bank and few depositors presented checks for payment.

The run on the Fourth National Bank was not in progress at noon, but there was no check on presentation and the officers say they will meet every demand promptly. The run on the American National Bank was long of depositors up at the bank, but the bank of order has prevailed and the American National Bank, State bank, is solid and no runs are being made on it.
